

GIRLS SHOULD BE TAUGHT HOW TO SPEND HUSBAND'S MONEY

Mrs. Percy Pennypacker.

Grand Junction, Col., Oct. 6.—
"Marriage is a profession. The government should establish an educational system where our girls should be taught housekeeping and home-making.

"Ninety per cent of the income of the nation is spent by the women.

"Yet the women are taught absolutely nothing in the way of spending."

The above are some of the views of Mrs. Percy V. Pennypacker, president of the National Federations of Women's Clubs, and expressed in addresses she is delivering to women's clubs in the West.

Mrs. Pennypacker is of the opinion that the marriage relation is too lightly regarded. She believes that the schools for girls which she would have the government establish should be conducted along the lines of the educational system of England and Germany.

"In Germany," said Mrs. Pennypacker, "a girl would consider herself a fraud and a disgrace if she married without proper preparation for her future married life.

"Were our girls properly educated here there would be no high cost of living problem now. As the spenders of the nation's income they have had no training for their future avocation."

I. W. W. PLAN TO HELP TEXTILE WORKERS' CONDITIONS

The Industrial Workers of the World have selected Joseph Ettor and Ewald Koettgen, members of the executive board, to go to Massachusetts and organize a general strike of 40,000 textile workers.

The district involved is in and around Webster, where the textile industry is at its highest. On their arrival in the district Ettor and Koettgen will call mass meetings in several towns and urge a general strike as the only remedy for existing evils.

After their work in the Massachusetts district is completed it is planned to send Ettor, Koettgen and other speakers into the Southern textile mill towns for the purpose of bettering labor conditions.

MACHINISTS TO MEET
